RHODE ISLAND FC

DETROIT CITY FC

GAME PREVIEW

With a 3-1 win against Brooklyn FC on Sept. 30, Detroit City FC officially clinched its playoff ticket, becoming the third Eastern Conference club to lock in its postseason berth in 2026. The club has continued its success since joining the USL Championship in 2022, making the playoffs in each of its first five seasons. The statement win in Brooklyn marked the earliest Detroit has clinched a playoff berth in the club's history. Detroit's 13W-6L-8T record this season is the second best in the Eastern Conference, and with just three games left on the season, the lowest Detroit City can finish in the standings is sixth. The hosts will look to continue a four-game unbeaten streak vs. Rhode Island FC as the push for a top-four home playoff spot continues.

A vital 3-1 victory over Brooklyn FC Wednesday could not come at a better time for Rhode Island FC as the race to clinch a playoff spot continues. After its last two wins, RIFC holds an 11W-10L-5T record in the regular season, sitting sixth in the Eastern Conference standings. The Ocean State club could have a chance to clinch its third-straight postseason appearance on Saturday, given help from around the conference. If Rhode Island FC is able to capture all three points on the road in Detroit, the squad must look to either Indy Eleven or Miami FC. If Indy loses its 7 p.m. matchup with the Tampa Bay Rowdies, or Miami drops points in its 7 p.m. matchup to Loudoun United FC, a win would book RIFC's third-straight ticket to the playoffs.

WHAT TO WATCH FOR

WEEKLY HONORS

A trio of RIFC players were named to the USL Championship Team of the Week for Week 31 following a critical 1-0 victory over Indy Eleven on Wednesday and its commanding 3-1 win in Brooklyn on Saturday. Defender Frank Nodarse headlined the group with his club-leading fifth selection of the season. Nodarse played all 180 minutes in the club's two contests, leading the team in passes (90) and accurate passes (52) against Indy and anchoring RIFC's defense through two games. Defender Karifa Yao and midfielder Amos Shapiro-Thompson were named to the bench after each of them tallied a goal in the first 22 minutes of RIFC's 3-1 win vs. Brooklyn. Shapiro-Thompson scored an incredible long-range goal to earn his second selection of the season, while Yao earned his first career TOTW selection for the Ocean State club. The trio mark the second time this season that three RIFC players have earned TOTW selections in the same week.

UNLIKELY HEROES

Karifa Yao and Amos Shapiro-Thompson combined combined to give RIFC a 2-0 lead in the opening 22 minutes at Brooklyn FC, setting the tone early en route to a critical conference victory. Shapiro-Thompson's goal was the first of his regular-season career for Rhode Island FC, and his second for the club across all competitions, both of which have come from outside the 18-yard box. He scored his second career RIFC goal 434 days after his first, which came on July 26, 2025 in a 2-2 tie vs. Hartford Athletic in the USL Cup. Yao's goal was the third of his RIFC career, two of which have come in his last four games.

FOR THE RECORDBOOKS

Rhode Island FC and Detroit City FC have split tough battles in the first five all-time matchups between the two clubs, with Rhode Island just trailing Detroit with a record of 1W-2L-2T in head-to-head series. Each game between these two sides has been a defensive battle, with four clean sheets recorded between either club. RIFC's last time out against Detroit fit that bill, as the two teams combined for a 0-0 tie on April 4 at Centreville Bank Stadium. In 2025, RIFC secured its lone win against Detroit in a 1-0 fight to the finish. Forward Maxi Rodriguez, who spent the 2025 season with RIFC between tenures with Detroit City, scored that lone goal on a penalty kick in a huge win to secure RIFC's 2025 playoff spot. A heroic outing from goalkeeper Koke Vegas in his return from injury powered the squad to three points following

PLAYOFF WATCH

After rising to sixth place in the Eastern Conference standings, RIFC sits just one point shy of fourth-place Hartford Athletic in the race for a home playoff spot. By the end of Week 32, RIFC could officially clinch its third-straight playoff berth with a win in Detroit and help from either Indy Eleven and Miami FC. Regardless of other results, at least six points in RIFC's last four games would confirm its spot in the 2026 postseason.

PLAYOFF CLINCHING SCENARIOS: WEEK 32

RIFC clinches a playoff spot if...

RI W vs. DET

- AND -

MIA L vs. LDN OR IND T/L vs. TBR

OBSCURE STAT OF THE WEEK

Rhode Island is unbeaten all-time prior to clinching the playoffs in the month of October (4W-0L-3T), out-scoring its opponents 20-3 through seven games. Both of RIFC's road games in that stretch have ended tied, and both have clinched RIFC's spot in the playoffs. It's sole loss in October came at the hands of New Mexico United on Oct. 24, 2025, but the Ocean State club had already clinched its playoff spot prior to that contest. RIFC heads to Detroit on Saturday with an opportunity to clinch the playoffs on the road in October for the third-straight year.

RHODE ISLAND FC

ABOUT RHODE ISLAND FC

Our purpose is to build A Club for All Rhode Island. Everything we do on and off the pitch is focused on this North Star. It is part of our culture, our language and our values. It is the inspiration for us to play a meaningful and impactful role in the community. It is the motivation for us to compete, win and raise trophies. It is the reason we built the award-winning Centerville Bank Stadium on the riverfront in downtown Pawtucket – a place to gather as a community and create lifelong memories.

We want to be one of the most respected soccer clubs in North America and the flagship venue for sports and entertainment in Rhode Island. We know that when we wear the crest across our hearts, we represent more than the club. We play for the people and place we call home. It is why, we will always be:

GROUNDLED

We are who we are. No apologies.

INDEPENDENT

Founded by an iconoclast, we were the first colony to break from tyranny. A defiant giant stands atop our state house as a reminder of hope and independence. We have never cared what others thought, and we are not about to start.

FOR ALL

The country's first synagogue. The first African American pro soccer players in the Watson Brothers. Immigrants from every corner of the globe stand tall within our borders. All are welcome in our state and in our club.

PROUD

We are a small state surrounded by titans. So we learned long ago that if you can't stand taller, stand together.

SALTY

What did you expect of the Ocean State? We've got an attitude and we are happy to share it with you – be it a raised glass or raised voice.

MEET CHIP

Not your ordinary harbor seal.

Name: Chip (because if you're THIS iconic, you deserve to be in the celebrity single name club!)

Favorite Food: Fish & Chips; Quahogs (secret cravings for New York System wieners, ideally washed down with some coffee milk.)

Languages spoken: Bark, Snort and Grunt. Arf! Arf!

Personality: Energetic. Optimistic. Charismatic. And just a tad salty.

Favorite sport: Beach soccer.

Favorite "haul out": That's a toughie. The stadium on gameday, of course. But shaking flippers with fans in the community is pretty awesome, too. And you just can't beat the rocks and beaches in Rhode Island.

Favorite team: RIFCFAA (Rhode Island FC Forever And Always). Duh!

Unique Features: 13 whiskers (RI is the 13th state after all); anchor nose; RIFC seal spots (when you're a true fan, you go all out).

Lucky number: 401

On the banks of the Seekonk River, the Tidewater Landing development is a gamechanger for the city of Pawtucket and the state of Rhode Island. The multi-purpose, award-winning Centreville Bank Stadium is the anchor of the development, which will include housing, restaurants, retail stores and recreational amenities. Rhode Islanders and visitors can attend a soccer match or concert, enjoy the Riverwalk, grab a bite, or call Centreville Bank Stadium home. The world-class destination on Pawtucket's riverfront will support thousands of jobs and create millions of dollars of tax revenue.

The 10,500-seat stadium is the home pitch to Rhode Island FC. Centreville Bank Stadium is the flagship venue for sports and entertainment in Rhode Island, hosting other sporting and community events and concerts.

Centreville Bank Stadium and the Tidewater Landing development is the result of over three years of close collaboration between the state of Rhode Island, the Executive Office of Commerce, the Rhode Island House and Senate, the city of Pawtucket, the Pawtucket City Council and developer Fortuitous Partners.

The site has been vacant for nearly 50 years. After decades of industrial use dating back to 1881, the full project will be built in multiple phases on two sites totaling 25 acres on both sides of the Seekonk River.

The private investment in Tidewater Landing represents the largest investment of private capital in any development in Rhode Island in over a century.
